meaning information about an identified or identifiable individual that is collected through our Product or Services.

Depending on how you interact with us, the following may also apply to you:

Our Services are delivered by our Care Providers. For Care Providers in the US, they are classified as covered entities under the Health Insurance Portability and Accountability Act (HIPAA). Headspace is subject to HIPAA as our Care Providers' business associate. Our Care Providers may provide you an additional privacy notice during enrollment which we encourage you to review. For example, if you receive Services from Ginger Medical, you can access their Notice of Privacy Practices here. If you are outside the US and use our international Care Providers, you may still receive an additional privacy notice from them as relevant to the applicable law in your area.

Some components or features of our Platform may include additional privacy notices, such as an optional feature that uses your personal information in a unique way. Similarly, you may have been given access to our Product or Services in a manner that includes additional terms or privacy notices such as from your employer. The language of those terms and privacy notices supplement this Privacy Policy unless there is a conflict, in which case those additional terms and privacy notices will apply.

You may follow links contained in our Platform or provided to you by other users to third-party websites or products not operated by us. This Privacy Policy does not apply to third-party websites or products. We strongly suggest you review their privacy policies to understand how your personal information is used and stored by those third parties.

Similar to the above point, you may use single sign-on (SSO) features to access our Platform, such as through your social media accounts or through your employer. That use may be subject to your SSO provider's terms and privacy policies, and we encourage you to review them prior to using those features.

This Privacy Policy is provided in a layered format. We provided summaries for each section, but we encourage you to read each section in detail.

1.	Collection of personal information	We may collect your personal information through our Platform, or when you otherwise share your information with us. Our collection may require your input or can be automatically collected while you engage with us.
2.	Use of personal information	We primarily use your personal information for our Products and Websites to function and to deliver you the Services. We also may use your personal information for other purposes like communicating to you about your interest in our Platform, processing payments, complying with legal obligations, or to develop new features or improvements.
3.	Sharing of personal information	We may share your personal information with certain third-party service providers to help make our Platform function. We may also share personal information as directed by you, to provide you with opportunities we think may interest you, or as legally required, such as to comply with a court order.
4.	Data security and retention	The security of your personal information is of utmost importance to us. We retain your personal information for as long as necessary, and we maintain appropriate safeguards to protect it.
5.	Your privacy rights	We want you to have choice in how your personal information is used. We provide you rights to request actions regarding your personal information including deletion, no matter where you

8.	Changes	We may change this Privacy Policy to reflect new services, changes in our data practices, or to comply with relevant laws.
9.	Contact us	You may contact us for comments, questions, or to exercise your privacy rights in various ways including emailing help@headspace.com
10.	Supplemental notices	This section provides additional information specific to certain jurisdictions. Please note, that our Platform is operated in the United States where your personal information will be primarily processed and stored.

1. Collection of personal information

We may collect or process the following personal information about you from what you provide us directly, what we receive from others, and personal information we may automatically collect when you interact with our Platform.

(a) Information you provide to us

Contact information and identifiers. When you use our Platform, we may ask you to provide certain contact information, including your first and last name and email address. We may also collect your social media identification number if you choose to access the Products via a social media account.

Account Information. If you decide to set up an account with us, we may ask you to provide certain additional contact information including, for example, your first and last name, e-mail address (personal and/or work), telephone number, mailing address, through the Services, such as talking with your coach or therapist about your current health needs or during treatment. We understand that this information is very sensitive so we handle it with care, including treating this health information as protected health information under HIPAA where applicable.

Profile and demographic information. Through your account in our Product, you may have the opportunity to provide additional information about yourself, such as your age, race and ethnicity, sexual orientation, preferred pronouns, gender or gender identity, sex at birth, marital status, and details about your health and medical history.

Payment information. If you sign up for a paid product or service from us, you may be required to provide your payment card or bank account information. Please note that Headspace does not directly process payment card information, and instead relies upon third-party payment processors to do so on our behalf. Please note that third-party terms may apply to these payment services. Personal information collected for these purposes includes card number, type, expiration date, and billing address, and certain anonymized, limited and/or truncated versions of this information may be provided to Headspace.

Survey information. We may present you with surveys for Product functionality, to provide you the Services, to provide you with information about our Products and Services that we think may be of interest to you, or for research purposes. These surveys may give you the opportunity to describe certain things about you, your use of the Platform, or feedback on future improvements.

Communication information. When you send or respond to emails, messages, chats, or other communications from Headspace, we may collect your email address, name, and any other personal information you choose to include in the body content of your communications. In addition, when you interact with certain features of our Products, we may collect the content of those communications.

Support information. When you submit a support request or otherwise engage with our

If you receive access to Headspace through your employer, health plan, or another party that sponsors your access (your "Benefit Sponsor"), we collect your name and email address and other information that your Benefit Sponsor submits to us to facilitate your enrollment in our Products and Services.

We may collect the name, email address, content engagement, and preferences of individuals that our users identify through our sharing and referral features. We use this data for the sole purpose of sharing content and referring individuals to join the Products.

We may collect personal information from parents or guardians for operating accounts for their dependants aged 13-17 where supported.

If you choose to have your account verified to confirm your eligibility for a select subscription offering, we may allow a third party platform to access the specific personal information you provide in order to perform the verification. Any failure to provide sufficient information or any response Headspace considers abnormal may result in Headspace refusing (or being unable) to verify your eligibility.

(c) Information we automatically collect

Our Products and Websites may collect information from you automatically during your use which may include:

Browser and device data, such as IP address, device identifier, device type, operating system and Internet browser type, screen resolution, operating system name and version, device manufacturer and model, language, plug-ins, add-ons, and the language version of the Websites and Products you are visiting.

Usage data, such as time spent on the Products and Websites including pages visited, links clicked, approximate location, language preferences, performance of features, patterns of use, and the pages that led or referred you to our Products and Websites.

2. Use of personal information

We may use your personal information in the following ways:

To provide our Platform, including the delivery of content and interactive features;
To communicate with you regarding our Platform including updates or changes;
To provide you support, answer your questions or requests for information, or handle your complaints;
To process payment, manage your orders, and account for applicable sales taxes;
To inform your Benefit Sponsor, if you have one, about your registration and other information as described in Section 3 below;
To fulfill our obligations under any agreements that we may have with you;
To maintain and improve the quality of our Platform, including to perform research and development, understand user trends;
To power machine learning algorithms that support our Platform;
To provide you with information about new Products and Services, promotions, and other opportunities that we believe may be of interest to you, whether offered by us or third-party partners, and to personalize, measure, and improve such offers;
To personalize the advertisements you receive about our Platform through third-party platforms, on other websites and apps;
To protect ourselves, you and others such as by taking actions to prevent fraud and other unlawful or unauthorized activity, and creating and maintaining a trusted, secure, and reliable online environment; and
To comply with our legal obligations including meeting regulatory compliance obligations, responding to subpoenas, court orders or other legal processes; and to establish or exercise our legal rights or defense against legal claims.

3. Sharing of personal information

We may disclose your personal information with the following categories of third parties:

Our service providers. In some circumstances we may need to disclose your personal information to a third party so that they can provide a service on our behalf, such as to help deliver Products or Services that you have requested. These service providers may include services such as analytics, payment processing, advertising and marketing, website hosting, customer and technical support, and other services. Our service providers have access to your personal information only to perform these tasks on our behalf, based on our instructions and are contractually obligated to maintain the confidentiality and security of your personal information, and to not disclose or use your personal information for any other purpose inconsistent with this Privacy Policy and applicable law.

Your integrations. You may connect your account through supported integrations with third parties and we will share your personal information with those third parties. If you do connect an integration, that third party's terms and privacy policy may apply to the personal information shared as a result and we encourage you to review those before setting up the integration. For example, if you are on iOS, you may connect our Products to Apple's Health Kit. If you do, iOS Privacy Policy and Terms of Use apply, and can be reviewed at www.apple.com/legal/privacy.

Community Activity. If you engage with other Platform users using our community features, we will share some information about you such as your name associated with bundled subscription offer, or other trusted partnership. This type of sharing will most often be consistent with your notice, consent, direction, and/or reasonable expectations in light of the circumstances in which you provided the personal information.

Third party advertising platforms. We work with third party platforms who provide us with analytics and advertising services. This includes helping us understand how users interact with our Platform serving advertisements on our behalf to those who may be interested, and measuring the performance of those advertisements.

Compliance and harm prevention. If we are under a duty to disclose or share your personal information in order to comply with any legal obligation, such as to comply with a subpoena, bankruptcy proceeding, similar legal process, or in order to enforce our agreements with you; or to protect the rights, property, or safety of Headspace, our customers, or others. This includes exchanging information with other companies and organizations for the purposes of fraud protection and credit risk reduction. We may also disclose personal information where we believe that doing so would be in accordance with or required by any applicable law, regulation or legal process.

Affiliates and business transfer. We may share your personal information with any member of our business group, which includes our subsidiaries and our affiliates including Ginger Medical and its medical professional corporation affiliates for any of the purposes described in this Privacy Policy. If Headspace, including any of our subsidiaries, brands, or affiliates, is involved in a merger, acquisition, asset sale, or other corporate combination, your personal information may be transferred to the acquiring or surviving entity. If such transfer results in a material change to the use of your personal information, we will provide notice before your personal information is transferred or becomes subject to a different privacy policy.

No security can be fully guaranteed, though. If you have an account with us and you suspect unauthorized use of your account or its credentials, you should contact us immediately using the contact information in Section 9 below or contact our security team directly at security@headspace.com.

We will keep your personal information for as long as needed to perform our obligations to you, or for as long as legally permitted. The criteria used to determine our retention periods include: (i) the length of time we have an ongoing relationship with you; (ii) whether there is a legal obligation to which we are subject; and (iii) whether retention is advisable in light of our legal position (such as in regard to applicable statutes of limitations, litigation or regulatory investigations). For example, we keep your account information, like your name, email address, and password, for as long as your account exists so that you may access it.

5. Your privacy rights

We believe that you should have control of your personal information. To that end we provide the following rights to make requests regarding your personal information. You may make these requests by contacting help@headspace.com or in some cases using features within the Platform:

Access. You have the right to know what personal information we collect about you and how we use it. This Privacy Policy serves to inform you about that collection and use. If we have personal information about you, you may also request a copy of that information.
Correction. You have the right to request the correction of your inaccurate personal to place a restriction due to the use being necessary for Product functionality or delivery of the Services.

No retaliation or discrimination. You have the right not to receive discriminatory or retaliatory treatment for making a request.

Upon receiving your request, we may ask for additional information from you in order to verify the request or confirm how you would like to proceed. We endeavor to respond to a verifiable request without undue delay. If we require an extended amount of time, we will inform you using the email associated with your account or the email you used to make the request.

We do not charge a fee to process your verifiable request unless it is excessive, repetitive, or clearly unfounded. If we determine that your request requires a fee, we will tell you why and provide you with a cost estimate before completing your request.

Your rights are not absolute, and exceptions may apply. These exceptions can arise from different factors including our legal obligations, the rights of others, your or another's safety, and our ability to bring or defend against legal claims. Additionally, we will not fulfill your request if you do not provide sufficient information to verify your identity or to verify that a third party making the request is authorized to act as your representative.

Some US jurisdictions provide residents with certain rights with respect to their personal information as defined under applicable law. These rights are subject to the specific laws of that jurisdiction and that certain other rights might apply. Please review our Supplemental Notices, including our Privacy Notice for EU and UK, our Privacy Notice for California, and our Privacy Notice for Virginia, Connecticut, Colorado, Utah, and Nevada for more information on rights and terms specific to your

If you are in the US and participate in our Headspace for Teens offering or through certain Benefit Sponsors' offerings, you may register an account as long as you are at least 13 years old.
If you are a US user 13 to 17 years old who may have joined as noted above, you may enroll in the Services with verifiable parent or guardian consent.
If you are a parent under our employee assistance program (EAP), you may refer your child of at least 6 years old to our Care Providers for in-person care but cannot create an app account for them.

You also may notice some content in our Products that appears geared towards children. This content is only meant for you to share with your child under your supervision, and does not require or allow your child to create an app account.

If you are a parent or guardian and you are aware that a child under age 13 has provided us with their personal information without parental consent, please contact us at help@headspace.com and we will take steps to remove that personal information from our servers.

7. Cookies

When you visit our Websites, we may collect information from you automatically through cookies including cookies provided by third parties. We use cookies and the information they collect for a variety of purposes including functionality, analyzing performance, security, personalizing Website content, and advertising. We will get your consent in order to use such trackers or provide you with the opportunity to opt-out of

When we may make a significant change, such as on how we use your personal information or your rights, we will notify you within the Platform or through another channel such as the email you supplied during account registration, in addition to posting the revised version on our Website. We encourage you to periodically check this Privacy Policy to stay informed about how we handle your personal information.

9. Contact us

We want to hear from you if you have questions, concerns, or requests regarding this Privacy Policy. You can reach us by emailing help@headspace.com or calling 855.432.3822.

10. Supplemental notices

Depending on your jurisdiction, you have additional rights that apply to you under your jurisdiction's privacy laws. We provide the supplemental information in this section in our efforts to comply with those additional privacy laws and inform you about your rights. If you do not see your jurisdiction below please do not interpret that to mean that we do not respect your privacy and we encourage you to still contact us using the contact details above with your questions or concerns. Please note that Headspace is a US based company and your personal information will be stored within the US.

Headspace is mindful of its responsibility and potential liability for onward transfers of personal data to third parties where Headspace deems such transfers necessary and those transfers are subject to the applicable EU-U.S. DPF, its UK Extension, or the Swiss-U.S. DPF.

Legal basis. Headspace relies on one or more legal bases to process your personal information under applicable law, including:

(i) with your consent, which you may withdraw at any time;
(ii) when the processing is necessary to perform our contractual obligations to you, like under our Terms;
(iii) when necessary to pursue our legitimate interests as further detailed below;
(iv) when necessary for our compliance with our legal obligations such as a request or order from courts, law enforcement or other government authorities.

Legitimate business interests. We may collect, process, and maintain personal information to pursue the legitimate business interests outlined below. To determine these legitimate interests, we balance our legitimate interests against the legitimate interests and rights of you and others, and only process personal information in accordance with those interests where they are not overridden by your data-protection interests or fundamental rights and freedoms.

Our legitimate interests generally include:

As mentioned above, if you are a resident of California, Headspace "sells" and "shares" personal information under the CCPA's broader definition of "sale" or "share." California law provides you a right to opt-out of such "sales" and "shares.". You may exercise this right by following this link and, if you are an Apps user, by going to the My Data page here or within your mobile app settings. The opt-out link is also available our Website's pages by clicking on the Your Privacy Choices link.

(c) Privacy Notice for other US states

We include this section for residents of other US states with privacy laws that may impact them. These privacy laws include the Virginia Consumer Data Privacy Act ("VCDPA"), the Connecticut Data Privacy Act ("CTDPA"), the Utah Consumer Privacy Act ("UCPA"), the Colorado Privacy Act ("CPA"), and the Nevada Privacy Law ("NPL"), the Rhode Island Data Transparency and Privacy Protection Act ("RIDTPA"), the Minnesota Consumer Data Privacy Act ("MCDPA"), and the Oregon Consumer Privacy Act ("OCPA"). This section is intended to comply with these laws by supplementing the information provided elsewhere in the Privacy Policy.

Collection of personal information. Headspace may collect the personal information described in Section 1 and as categorized in the table within Section 10(b) above. Please note that some of this personal information will be considered sensitive under your state's legal definition which can vary across different states. The personal information we may collect depending on how you use our Platform includes mental or physical health information, racial or ethnic origin, and information about sexual orientation or gender identity.

rights as noted below. To exercise your right, see the contact information in Section 9 or follow the instructions below for specific state rights. We will respond to your verifiable request within the time limit afforded under applicable law. Exceptions may still apply as described in Section 5.

Residents of Colorado, Connecticut, Virginia, Utah, Minnesota, Rhode Island, and Oregon have the right to opt out of targeted advertising and sales. If you are a resident of these states, you may opt out by following this link and, if you are an Apps user, by going to the My Data page here or within your mobile app settings.

For users in Colorado, Connecticut, Virginia, Utah, Minnesota, Rhode Island, and Oregon have the right to opt out of profiling in furtherance of decisions that produce legal or similarly significant effects. While you may still make this request, Headspace does not currently use profiling in this manner.

Nevada provides its residents a limited right to opt out of the sale of personal information. Please know that we do not trigger this requirement because we do not sell your personal information for payment.

Residents in Minnesota and Oregon may obtain a list of the specific third parties to whom we may disclose your personal information. General information about these third parties is available in Section 3. You can make this request using the contact information in Section 9.

The RIDTPA entitles Rhode Island residents to know the third parties to which we sell or may sell their personal information. Headspace does not sell personal information for payment but, like with the CCPA in Section 10b, a “sale” under the RIDTPA can include sharing personal information for targeted advertising. Under that definition, we have shared personal information, which may include yours, to the third parties listed here.
